

DISCOVER A WORLD OF CAREER OPTIONS IN PUBLIC WORKS!

ATTEND THE AMERICAN PUBLIC WORKS ASSOCIATION'S COLLEGE CAREER EXPO

Are you working on a degree in engineering, public administration, construction management, business, environmental sciences, or something similar? If you are, then a job in public works could be right for you. On Sunday, August 30 we'll be hosting the 2026 APWA Futures: College Career Expo, a full-day event that offers you opportunities to learn from those currently practicing in the field, walk an extensive exhibit floor, connect and network with hundreds of professionals and participate in our Workforce Development Hub.

When and where is this year's event taking place?

When: Sunday, August 30 | 8:30 a.m.–4 p.m.

Where: George R. Brown Convention Center
1001 Avenida de las Americas, Houston, Texas 77010

Cost: $5 Early Bird Pricing (until June 1)
$10 General Pricing (after June 1)
Includes Breakfast, Lunch, and Parking

What is public works, and why should I be looking at it for my career development?

Public works encompasses everything people in local government do to provide and sustain the structures and services we count on for an acceptable quality of life. The United States has approximately 19,400 municipalities of varying sizes. In each community, whatever its size, there are hundreds of interesting, service-oriented, good-paying positions that are being filled by visionary people like yourself. As you get closer to completing your degree, why not put yourself on the public works career path? Visit careerzone.apwa.org.

Why should I attend the APWA Futures: College Career Expo?

This is an excellent opportunity to grow your future connections! This event includes interactive learning opportunities with a panel of public works professionals who will share tips on how to get started with a successful career in this industry. Immediately following the learning portion, you'll have an opportunity to walk the exhibit floor where you can meet and mingle with industry professionals in the Workforce Development Hub.

How do I register/apply?
